

~~SECRET~~

SENIOR SCIENTIFIC REPRESENTATIVE ABROAD

MISSION

To serve as the Director's representative for scientific intelligence matters in foreign countries, making recommendations to him for the long-term improvement of scientific intelligence activities abroad.

FUNCTIONS

Acting in a staff capacity to the DCI, the Senior Scientific Representative <sup>Abroad</sup> will:

1. Review, and submit recommendations to the DCI on, such scientific intelligence matters as the following:
  - a. The adequacy and effectiveness of guidance provided to scientific intelligence collection abroad, both overt and covert.
  - b. Activities of all US components abroad concerned with the collection of scientific information which might be of use to intelligence.
  - c. Coordination and cooperation between overt and clandestine scientific intelligence collection programs and the balance between overt and covert efforts.
  - d. Coordination of overt scientific intelligence collection and estimating process of the Agency with  other countries as directed.

25X1A6A

~~SECRET~~

SECRET

e. Scientific advice and support to intelligence activities supplied by US governmental research and development components based abroad.

f. The potentialities and effectiveness of the exploitation of various overt sources of scientific intelligence information such as: travelling US scientists, visiting Agency consultants, science attaches, [redacted] [redacted], publication procurement programs, travel folder program, foreign contact operations, etc.

g. Such additional means of overt collection and special procurement as may become apparent through knowledge of conditions in the field.

2. Through personal contacts with senior US intelligence officials, as opportunity arises, stimulate overt and clandestine collection activities designed to service both high-priority and long-term scientific intelligence objectives.

3. Maintain current knowledgeability of scientific intelligence objectives and provide advice and guidance to Chiefs of Station and other senior US intelligence officials.

4. In the name of the DCI, ? maintain continuing personal contact with top scientific intelligence officers [redacted]

[redacted] of other countries.

SECRET

SECRET

5. Maintain contacts, as practicable, with foreign scientists to obtain new ideas and approaches to means of acquiring and handling scientific information and make appropriate recommendations to the DDI.
6. Maintain, as practicable, contacts with US research and development officials and private individuals based abroad in order to create better understanding and cooperation between such persons and intelligence components.
7. Contact selected US scientists visiting foreign areas in order to maintain knowledgeability of US research and to promote cooperation of these scientists with intelligence activities.

SECRET